BBiTV Resolves & Dismisses Patent Infringement Suit Against DISH
Suit Related to Video-On-Demand Patents

WACO, Texas, December 8, 2021 – Broadband iTV, Inc. (“BBiTV”), an Austin, Texas-based company that was one of the pioneers of video-on-demand, announced today that it filed a dismissal of its patent infringement lawsuit against DISH Network L.L.C. relating to video-on-demand, set-top box and related technologies.

“We are pleased to have the litigation completed and are proud of BBiTV’s patented technologies,” said Clifton Kagawa, Chief Executive Officer of BBiTV. “BBiTV developed and owns a portfolio of more than 70 issued U.S. patents, comprised entirely of technologies developed by BBiTV inventor and Chief Technology Officer Milton Diaz Perez, based on his work over several decades.”

“BBiTV developed the underlying technology that all of its patents were derived from, and BBiTV has not acquired any of its patents from third parties,” explained Kagawa.

BBiTV is represented by lead counsel Robert Kramer and his team at the law firm Feinberg Day Kramer Alberti Lim Tonkovich & Belloli LLP.

About BBiTV

BBiTV was a pioneer in the development of on-demand and interactive technology for the cable sector. The company is based in Austin, Texas, and began as an operating company in 2001 wherein it launched two critical, first-to-market development projects in the US. These included an interactive community channel and a Web platform enabling direct to television video publishing. BBiTV partnered with Oceanic Time Warner Cable (now Charter), to establish the nation’s first long form informational video channel.
